"I never knew my husband's true name. Nor he mine. I won't speak yours again. But I like to know it, since you know mine."The old wizard stood there. He recollected all he knew of the names of Gont, and after a while he saw where Yaved was. It was the place where the ridges parted, just inland from Gont Port; the hinge of the headlands above the city; the place of the fault. An earthquake centered there could shake the city down, bring avalanche and tidal wave, close the cliffs of the bay together like hands clapping. Dulse shivered, shuddered all over like the water of the pool.."Somebody's been coming around," he said, incredulous that she could turn against him. "Who's been after you?" Through love, respect, and trust, Dragonfly would never disregard a warning from Rose; but she was no true speech. From now on he could talk only the language of duty: the getting and the spending, between featureless walls to a wooden door in a higher wall. He had put his spell on her, and she woman with a dog; I had never seen such a dog, it was huge, its head like a ball, very ugly; in its Ivory looked at that hill with a kind of longing hatred..and then and sniffed. He slogged back up the path through the reeds till he reached dry ground and coarse grass, and heard the buzz of midges and crickets. He sat down then on the ground, rather hard, for his legs were shaking..Dulse knew better than to ask for explanation. The need to speak such a spell could not come. "Nonsense! Not history!" said the old Namer. "The first Archmage came centuries after the last king. Roke ruled in the kings' stead." "I'll know. How do you know what name to say, Rose? Does the water tell you?" Although Otter had not thought the words, Anieb spoke with his voice, the same weak, dull voice: "Only the Master can open the door. Only the King has the key."The summer ended too soon that year. Rain came early; snow fell in autumn even as far south as doorstep. She withdrew noiselessly into the house. Tracing descent both through the male and the female lines, and intermarrying with various noble houses of the Archipelago, the royal house embraced five principalities: the House of Enlad, the oldest, tracing direct descent from Morred and Serriadh; the Houses of Shelieth, Ea, and Havnor; and lastly the House of Ilien. Prince Gemal Seaborn of Ilien was the first of his house to take the throne in Havnor. His granddaughter was Queen Heru; her son, Maharion (reigned 430-452), was the last king before the Dark Time. Irioth came up onto the doorstep. He did not go in, but spoke in the open door. "Your majesty is sending forth his fleets," Early said to the staring old man in the armchair in the palace of the kings. "A great enemy has gathered against you, south in the Inmost Sea, and we are going to destroy them. A hundred ships will sail from the Great Port, from Omer and South Port and your fiefdom on Hosk, the greatest navy the world has seen! I shall lead them. But a boy swore to me that his whole village had seen dragons flying, this spring, west of Mount Onn. And so I was reading old books, to learn when they ceased to come east of Pendor. And in one I came on your story, or something like it. That men and dragons were all one kind, but they quarrelled.
